	Brief description: In Europe and in third-countries, the leaders of tomorrow in academia, or in responsible positions in government, public organizations and business enterprises, need to have the means to understand, tackle, and overcome future economic, social as well as inter-cultural challenges. In this frame, IMPAKT proposes a project focusing on fields that will help strengthening the academic and knowledge backgrounds of future leaders or students engaged in studies supporting decision-making processes and develop academic human resources in quantity and in quality. Fields such as Economics, Education, Environmental Sciences, Law, Management, Planning, will be more specifically targeted. Designed to enhance the development of teaching and learning capacity, to contribute to the mutual enrichment of societies and to participate to the implementation of the EU policy, IMPAKT involves 20 institutions and 11 associated partners in Asia and in Europe. Thanks to the EU funding under Erasmus Mundus Action 2, 215 scholarships will be awarded to Bachelor, Master, Doctorate, Post-Doctorate students and Staff between 2014 and 2018. Programme of excellence, the beneficiaries will be chosen among the best candidates of the partner institutions as well as from other HEIs in Asia and Europe, and will be offered the opportunity to enrich their knowledge and professional skills through mobility. IMPAKT will also strive on integrating vulnerable groups and promote equal access to HE. Throughout the project's implementation the partner institutions will develop new forms of collaborations and create a framework for a sustainable and long lasting cooperation. As most Asian countries are in a transition process, IMPAKT is expected to bridge the academic world and the policy-making system. By providing scientific foundations for governments to implement relevant socio-economic development policies academic and knowledge transfers brought by IMPAKT will contribute to sustainable transition.
