GLEUBE: Globalising European Bioethics Education

Duration 2 years and 3 months

Project description
With input from across the European Union the project will ensure the participation of academics, students and other stakeholders from outside of the European Union in European bioethics research and education activities. This will be achieved through the provision of a web-based portal of interactive materials, together with the hosting of international events.

Project aims:
- to increase the number of international students who choose to study bioethics within the European Union;
- to promote European scholarship in the field of bioethics to the international academic community;
- to make European scholarship and education in the field of bioethics widely available to the international community.

Project objectives (and outcomes):
- to create a digital resource that provides, in an open access format, lectures and teaching materials by European Scholars on topics pertinent bioethics;
- to provide information on current scholarship and education activities within bioethics in Europe;
- to provide resources on European Bioethics for a general international audience;
- to host a “European Bioethics Summer School” to promote European Bioethics research and education activities;
- to hold an international conference that showcases the work of European Bioethics to the international community.

Partners
University of Central Lancashire, United Kingdom (Co-ordinator)
Helsinki Yliopisto, Finland
Dublin City University, Ireland
Universitet I Oslo, Norway
Cardiff University, United Kingdom

Contact
Anthony Mark Cutter
University of Central Lancashire
Adelphi Building, Fylde Road, Preston,
UK- Lancashire PR1 2HE, UNITED KINGDOM
E: amcutter@uclan.ac.uk

http://www.uclan.ac.uk

Grant 261,904,70 €